The look is me in DMC!

The thread is Pearl Cotton.

It's a fashion natural from DMC—100% pure cotton in 24 up-to-the-second colors—taking a shine to the season's newest looks in crochet. Who would dream up such sublime styles for such a practical and versatile thread? Naturally DMC.

CROCHET FANTASY®

Editor's Notes

My copy of a wonderful, musty-smelling compendium of historic and domestic trivia called the White House Cook Book, dated 1911, subtitles itself A Comprehensive Cyclopedia of Information for the Home. It has authoritative-sounding advice for everything from planning a state dinner to cleaning marble statues to making lye soap.

It also contains this gem of turn-of-the-century etiquette: "The dessert plate containing the finger-bowl, also a dessert knife and fork, should then be set before each guest, who at once removes the finger-bowl and its doily, and the knife and fork to the table, leaving the plate ready to be used for any dessert chosen."

Elsewhere, it advises, "Liquors, cordials, and cigars are served on a separate table after the ladies have retired to the parlor."

Today, of course, finger-bowls are as dated a custom as sexually segregated after-dinner conversation. Only the simple doily endures as a symbol of warm hospitality and gracious dining.

This issue of Crochet Fantasy® contains dozens of patterns for doilies of all sizes, shapes and levels of crocheting skill, plus tablecloths and runners, for your state dinners and other at-home entertaining.

Besides being useful-under finger-bowls, however, consider these conventional and unusual uses of doilies:

- under a centerpiece
- under candlesticks
- as placemats
- as coasters
- framed, as dining room wall decor
- wrapped around a lampshade, as shown on page 56
- as an eye-catching chairback, as shown on page 55
- lining a basket of rolls or cookies
- or starched, as shown on page 48, serving as the basket itself for rolls, cookies, candy, fruit, flowers or tapers (just don't let lighted candles burn too low).

Runners add a highly decorative element to a table. But don't limit yourself to a single runner bisecting your tabletop. Try crossing two long runners at the center of any shape table, to form an X. Or use three identical runners to form a letter H on a large rectangular or oval table.

Use a long center runner and accentuate it with matching placemats. Or use contrasting placemats for an eclectic look.

Stripe a table with several identical runners laid in the width. Use them either on the bare tabletop or over a fabric cloth.

Tablecloths provide the most uniform setting for your dishes, flatware and glassware. But vary their mood by using colored or patterned liners, the bare tabletop beneath or placemats on top.

If you've always used cloths with short overhangs, try using one that reaches to the floor for a dramatic effect (or to hide unsightly table legs).

We're curious to know how you use the doilies and runners you make from the patterns in this issue of Crochet Fantasy®. Write to us, enclosing clear snapshots of your table decor (and a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you want your pictures returned).

Send your ideas to Crochet Fantasy®, All American Crafts, 70 Sparta Avenue, Sparta, New Jersey 07871. We'll pay you $5.00 for each idea we publish.

ChainMAIL

We take pleasure in presenting this, the nineteenth issue of Crochet Fantasy® magazine. We have selected articles in varying degrees of difficulty to ensure that you will find something to please and challenge you. The level of difficulty is indicated by asterisks: * Beginner;  Intermediate;  Advanced.

INSTRUCTIONS: We have endeavored to make our instructions as complete and detailed as possible. Before beginning, read carefully the explanations of special stitches, if any. We indicate at the beginning of each pattern how to start and finish a row. This is not repeated in the instructions. Because most of the instructions are symmetrical, it is important to understand the use of bullets. "Repeat from • to • 5 times" means that you should work instructions given between bullets 6 times in all.

Example: Row 3: • 2 dc in 1 dc, 3 ch, skip 1 dc •, repeat from • to • 5 times. Work as follows: 3 ch (= first dc), 1 dc in corresponding dc of previous row, 3 ch, skip 1 dc and work 2 dc in following dc of previous row, 3 ch, etc. so as to obtain 6 groups of 2 dc and 6 loops of 3 ch.

We have also included drawings or graphs for most articles to assist in completing each step properly. The numbers on the diagrams correspond to the row numbers in the text. The number in the center of a motif indicates the number of chain stitches used to start a pattern.

If you have any difficulties, please do not hesitate to contact us. We will do everything we can to assist you.

MATERIALS: We recommend the use of DMC crochet cottons: Cebelia (Article 167), a 3-cord cotton for all types of work, in 27 colors and 4 sizes; Cordonnet Special (Article 151), a 6-cord cotton in 9 sizes, for the finest items; Brilliant Crochet Cotton, (Article 981), in 29 colors, for heavier work; Pearl Cotton (Article 116), in exciting solid colors and variegated hues. If DMC cotton threads are not available, substitute any cotton of proper thickness and texture.

TWO-STEP CRAFTS

Several of the projects featured in this issue of Crochet Fantasy® are two-step crafts: first you complete the crochet directions, then you either stiffen or stencil the finished item. General directions for both procedures follow.

STIFFENING

Previously, crocheted items were stiffened by using a sugar and water concoction or by starching. Both methods, however, are subject to the ravages of humidity and insects. To the rescue are several widely-available fabric stiffeners that may be used on almost any fabric or thread project. Once dry, they take on a permanent shape and can be cleaned with a damp sponge.

Generally, directions call for soaking the project in the stiffener and molding it over a form (disposable plastic margarine or whipped topping tubs and bleach bottles are perfect and offer a range of sizes). When the stiffener has dried, remove the form.

Aleene's 2-in-1 Fabric Stiffener & Liquid Fabric Draping Medium by Art's/Aleene of Solvang, California, comes in cup, pint and quart containers and may be thinned with water. If it fills in the spaces between crocheted stitches, you can remove it by shaking off the excess or dabbing with a paper towel while the project is still wet. If you don't notice that some spaces have filled in until the stiffener is partially dry, rinse the project with clear water and allow it to dry completely.

Get Set Fabric Stiffener by Bond Adhesives of Newark, New Jersey, is non-toxic and non-flammable. Sold in pint, quart and gallon sizes, it, too, may be diluted with water; experiment to obtain the consistency you like. Get Set may be painted once it has dried completely.

Stif'n-Fab by Posi Bendr is guaranteed against yellowing. The company recommends that you use it only on cottons; synthetics don't absorb it properly.

Mod Podge from Plaid Enterprises of Norcross, Georgia, is available in both matte and gloss finishes. It's sold in sizes ranging from four ounces to one gallon, is non-toxic, easy to apply and dries quickly.

Any of these products would work well on the doily basket on page 48. Also, try them on placemats, ornaments, window shade pulls, lampshades, or anyplace you want the beauty of crochet combined with the practicality of a durable, wipe-clean surface.

Be sure to read and carefully follow the manufacturer's directions for best results.

STENCILING

Stenciling on a crocheted background is easy and rewarding. It also offers an infinite variety of ways to decorate a basic surface, like a placemat.

These instructions were prepared for Crochet Fantasy® by DuPont, manufacturers of Stencil Decor™ pre-cut, reusable stencils of Mylar® and Stencil Decor™ All-Surface Waterbase Paint. Stencil paints by other manufacturers should also work; check the label.

In addition to stencils, paints and brushes, you will need masking tape, paper towels or scrap fabric and an iron (not a steam iron).

Preparation for stenciling: Shake the container of paint to mix, and remove lid. Touch brush to the paint. Remove excess paint from the brush by rubbing brush energetically on a stack of paper towels. This step also assures that the paint is evenly distributed in the whole brush. Make sure the brush is "dry" enough and the color is correct by trying your brush on an extra piece of fabric or paper towel. Practice stenciling on a small crocheted square before moving on to the actual project.

Stenciling the design: Place the crochet square (right side up) on a flat, smooth surface, such as a tabletop or board, and tape the square to the surface. Center the stencil pattern on the square and tape the stencil to the square at all four corners. Place a wide band of tape or paper at the edges of the stencil on all sides to prevent the paint from smearing on the fabric. If you're using a Mylar® sheet containing the whole pattern for all the colors, mask off the unwanted colors with tape, leaving the cutout for the first color open.

Hold the tip of the brush perpendicular to the fabric as you stencil. After a few very light brush strokes, begin to brush using energetic circular motions or an energetic tapping motion of the tip of the brush to work the paint into the fabric. For darker shades, build up color by brushing over the stencil repeatedly. As you work, hold down the stencil near the cut-out area with your free hand.

After you've completed stenciling the first color, remove and change the tape or stencil. Make sure your hands are free of paint!

Apply the second color. Repeat stenciling for the additional colors.

After stenciling is completed, allow the pattern to dry for about 24 hours. Then place stenciled piece on an ironing board, stenciled side up. Using a dry iron (not a steam iron), iron at cotton setting for 20 seconds to set the paint. Slide the iron on the surface of the pattern, making sure that all the painted images get about 20 seconds of heat. Do not use pressure on the iron.

Washing instructions: When the item is soiled and needs washing, machine wash in cold water and mild detergent. Machine dry.
